

My Heart Is On An Island

Author Unknown

My heart is on an island,
That seems oh so far away,
My mind is caught between two worlds,
Yet it is here that I must stay.

For this isn't just any island,
Full of beaches and sunny scenes,
No, this is a place where courage lives
And changes men and women into Marines.

Endurance, determination and perseverance,
Are needed each and every day,
Yet all I can do is think of him,
Send encouragement and pray.

So I pray that the Lord watches over him
And helps him keep on going,
For he can't see the pride for him
That others here are showing.

And with every day that passes
The feelings are even harder for me to hide,
I may be here; but my heart is not,
For it is at his side!
